REACH REGULATION

Dear customer,

We thank you for your inquiry regarding the new REACH regulation. Morchem S.A. promises to accomplish the REACH requirements, and we would like to develop them in close collaboration with our customers and suppliers.

Our main objective is to ensure that all substances commercialized by us – either in form of substance or preparation – will be pre-registered and registered according to the REACH regulation. By means of the pre-registration, Morchem S.A. strives to avoid any incidents in the commercialization and supply of these substances. The registration of the substances will take place, in accordance with the timeline for phase-in substances, between 2010 and 2018.

Many of our products can be considered polymers as per REACH. This type of substances is exempt from registration and evaluation, but we have to assure that the monomers forming them will be registered.

Morchem S.A. is working with its suppliers to ensure that the strategic raw materials will be considered under REACH in such a way that our production processes will not be affected. In order to handle all information correctly, we are setting up a data base which will contain the answers of our suppliers. Once this data base is completed, we can determine the intentions of our suppliers regarding the pre-registration and registration and evaluate how these will affect our products.

Morchem S.A. promises to maintain our customers informed about any change which can affect the availability of our products.

Under the new REACH regulations, the communication along the supply chain will be of great importance, as the uses and conditions of manipulation of the substances throughout their lifecycles have to be determined.

It is not necessary to specify the uses of the substances for the pre-registration. However, this information will be required in the future in order to set up the dossiers for registration and the exposure scenarios. Morchem S.A. will then ask its customers for this information, to ensure that all uses are covered by the registration.

We remain at your entire disposal for any more information you might need.

Yours sincerely,

MORCHEM, S.A.
